REDUCING WASTE, INCREASING COMMUNITY: HASSEMAN BREWING

Although a relatively new business in Coshocton, Hasseman Brewing celebrates the history of Coshocton County and its community. Owner Kirby Hasseman encourages the “Reduce, Reuse, Recycle” motto in his home and businesses in both conventional and unique ways.

Many of the furnishings in the taproom, located at 115 South 6th Street in Coshocton, are recycled from various businesses that used to call Coshocton their home. From old city maps, old local school’s yearbooks and light fixtures, Kirby has found a way to display items that some may have considered “trash” and given them new life and purpose.

A by-product of the brewing process is “spent grain.” Spent grain is the leftover malt and other parts of the brew after the mash has extracted most of the sugars, proteins, and nutrients. It can constitute as much as 85% of a brewery’s total by-product. Hasseman employs a “foam to farm” approach and gives spent grains to a few local, small producers to feed chickens, cows and hogs.

Looking toward future recycling opportunities, refillable glass growlers are being offered to patrons. Water bottles, aluminum cans and cardboard boxes are items he strives to be more consistent in recycling.

We appreciate Hasseman Brewing’s recycling efforts in the community!

SHARE YOUR RECYCLING STORY

Want to know more about other local businesses and their recycling efforts? Me, too! If your company is recycling, let me know. We’ll post your information on our web page and include it in our next newsletter. Just contact Tammi (info on back) or send a Facebook message today.

Local businesses and industries have realized that recycling is not just good publicity, it’s good business! Recycling cuts down on the amount of waste a company has to pay to dispose of, and depending on what markets exist, may even provide an additional revenue stream.

LET'S WORK TOGETHER

Coshocton County has 12 recycling trailer drop-off sites all over the county. If you have recyclables and live in an area that doesn't collect recycling with your trash service, please feel free to use the trailers. If you notice the trailer is full, contact Tammi at 740.575.4813 or text 740.502.4048. Trailers accept paper, cardboard, aluminum, steel food cans, and plastics #1-#7.

Find out where and what can be recycled at:

GOING ELECTRONIC- REDUCE REUSE RECYCLE

If you would like to receive the Waste Not newsletter for business and industry in an electronic format, please email your contact information to tammirogers@coshoctoncounty.net

It is my goal to keep our paper, postage and other resources at a minimum while continuing to provide local business and industry current and relevant information on reducing, reusing and recycling.

Feel free to share this newsletter with others!
