Ohio Food Assistance Program
(SNAP, Food Stamps)

Provides monthly benefits to assist low-income households in purchasing the food they need to maintain adequate nutritional levels

Ohio Commodity Supplemental Food Program

A federal nutrition assistance program that provides low-income, elderly individuals with a monthly box of food. The box does not contain a complete diet, but provides nutrients typically lacking in the diets of the elderly population.

It includes a variety of foods, such as cheese; nonfat dry and Ultra High Temperature (UHT) milk; juice; oats and ready-to-eat cereal; rice and pasta; peanut butter; dry beans or peas; canned meat, poultry or fish; and canned fruits and vegetables. All of Ohio's 88 counties participate in CSFP.

Emergency Food Assistance Program

A Federal program that helps low-income people, including elderly people, by providing them with emergency food assistance at no cost through the Mid-Ohio Foodbank.
